

Single Note Warm Ups

Tablature

When playing these single note warm ups, you will need to understand TAB. This is how it works: There are six lines, each representing a string. The lowest line is the low E string (sixth string). The numbers written on the lines are the frets that are played. In this example, you would play the 3rd fret of the 5th string followed by the 5th fret on the same string.

Let's try playing some songs I'm sure you've heard before:
